

Strengthening the Capacity of Humanitarian Aid Organizations

DisasterReady+ (DR+) enables humanitarian aid organizations to cost-effectively develop, engage, and empower their teams anytime, anywhere.

Build on the content and functionality of DisasterReady.org

Curated by experts in staff development and humanitarian action, DisasterReady.org includes an ever-increasing library of more than 600 online learning resources covering the most critical topics in humanitarian aid. In addition to this core content, DR+ administrators can easily upload training materials specific to the organization in a private DR+ learning environment thus maximizing their training content strategy.

Guide the learning and development of the entire organization

As learners take courses within DR+, administrators can view reports on course downloads, user ratings, and completion to determine which courses and resources are of greatest value to groups of learners.

Develop a culture of peer-driven learning

With DR+, administrators can establish online communities where colleagues can connect and collaborate in support of their professional development. Learners can take virtual classes together, participate in facilitated discussions, and share institutional best practices.

“DisasterReady+ has been a wonderful training and development resource for our staff and volunteers. We can offer high-quality courses and I can track progress of team members and our entire organization.”

Kamran Saeed, Global Safety & Security Learning & Development Manager, Save the Children International

DR+ is a trusted professional development resource of leading humanitarian agencies including:
